Montevallo Men Attend Selma's C of C Banquet

Occasion Was in Honor of E. E. Norris, President of The Southern Railway

Montevallo's representatives at Selma's railroad banquet Tuesday night were Dr. J. I. Riddle, president of the Civic Club, Postmaster R. A. Reid, Dr. W. D. Jackson, S. M. Mahan, of the Town Council, and Stanley White.

An accident marred the trip at the start when Dr. Riddle's car left the road below Wilton and rolled down a high bank, turning over several times. The occupants, Dr. Riddle, Mr. Reid, Dr. Jackson, and Mr. Dobbins were slightly bumped and scratched. They came back to town, secured another car, and all but Mr. Dobbins set out on the trip again, with better luck that time.

"It was a grand affair," said Dr. Riddle, "in spite of our little excitement to start with. Selma really put on a good entertainment for the many visitors in the city."

The occasion was sponsored by the Selma Chamber of Commerce in honor of Mr. E. E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway and other prominent railroad officials. Many people prominent in industrial, governmental, political and civic life in Selma and all of central Alabama were present to take part in one of the most elaborate programs of its kind ever held in this section.

Each of the towns in the territory represented was allotted a few minutes on the program at the banquet Tuesday night. Dr. Riddle was spokesman for Montevallo.

President Norris and his party left Birmingham Tuesday morning in a special train, reaching Selma shortly before noon. En route they made a short stop at Aldrich where they made a brief inspection of the properties of the Montevallo Coal Mining Company as guests of D. A. Thomas, president of the company.

Home Economics Open House Is Success

Despite the fact that Mother Nature took the same afternoon we selected for open house for her rain downpour, open house was successful. Quite a few women were able to attend and enjoy the clever displays of various homemaking problems such as child development, care of the sick, cosmetics, clothing, hobbies, and a demonstration on how to make celery curls and radish roses.

Also of interest to them was an entertaining program which consisted of a talk with picture slide illustrations on how flowers and shrubs can change the appearance of the home. Two musicals, "My Wild Irish Rose" and "The Bells of Saint Mary," played by Gertrude Kirkley livened up the evening. Miss Martin then gave the guests a little quiz to let them find out how much they know or how much they didn't know about homemaking problems.

The guests expressed their wish in an adult class by checking a phase of homemaking that interested them most. Refreshments were served and the afternoon, though dark and dreary outside, was quite pleasant inside.

The newly organized class had its first meeting Wednesday afternoon, April 5, at 3 o'clock at the high school home economics building. They studied "What to Have for Dinner." The next meeting will be Wednesday afternoon, April 12, at 3 o'clock, and the lesson will be "An Easy Guest Dinner."

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fore and children, Harvel and June, of Columbiana, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Carter and Miss Beatrice Fancher Saturday night.

Public Is Invited To Hear Noted Lecturer

A special invitation has been extended by Alabama College to the people of Montevallo and Shelby County to hear a lecture, "Adventures With Birds," illustrated by natural color motion pictures, in Palmer Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. Friday, April 14.

The lecturer will be Dr. Olin Sewall Pettingill, Jr., instructor in zoology at Carleton College, Northfield, Minnesota, and instructor in ornithology at the University of Michigan Biological Station.

Two summers were spent by Dr. Pettingill in studying and photographing birds in Minnesota, Michigan, Maine, and the Bay of Fundy. Days were passed in wading marshes, tramping over plains, sailing along rivers and lakes, living with birds on a sea island; hundreds of feet of motion picture film were exposed. The high-spots of his exploits and the best of his film will compose the lecture appropriately called "Adventures With Birds."

Civic Club Entertained With Good Program

With twenty-five people present the Montevallo Civic Club had an unusually good meeting Wednesday noon in the recreation hall of the Baptist Church.

The program consisted of music and short talks. Mrs. Waller, of the high school faculty, brought her junior glee club and her boys' harmonica club, both of which gave several numbers. Short talks in the nature of "Echoes of Selma" were made by Dr. J. I. Riddle, Dr. W. D. Jackson, and Mr. R. A. Reid, who, along with Mr. Stanley Mahan and Mr. Stanley White, represented the club at the Norris Day banquet in Selma.

Mr. McCall, the artist from Jacksonville, Florida, who has been at work for the past several months on a mural for the Montevallo postoffice, gave an explanation of the background and motif of the painting. Postmaster Reid expressed the appreciation of the town for the splendid piece of art which is now in place and asked all to take time to enjoy it.

President Riddle expressed high appreciation for the good programs which the club is having, and for the increased interest on the part of the membership.

Mrs. Bessie Hoskins spent several days of this week with her son, Mr. Andrew Hoskins, in Birmingham.

"The South Must Get Out of Hock To the North," Says Roosevelt

Auburn, Ala., April 3 — Urging self-sufficiency for the South, President Roosevelt spoke here last Thursday before 10,000 people at Auburn's Bullard Field.

"The South must get out of hock to the North," declared the president, speaking from his automobile. In the car with him were Governor Frank M. Dixon, Senator Lister Hill, and Congressman Henry B. Steagall.

"I for one do not believe the South is too poor to raise enough capital to put into its own industries, and thereby produce its own needs," the Chief Executive declared emphatically.

The City of Auburn and Alabama Polytechnic Institute were gaily bedecked with flags and bunting as the President paused here enroute from Chehaw via Tuskegee, Auburn and Opelika for a vacation at Warm Springs, Ga. As the nation's chief drove up in his long black Cadillac, he was greeted by Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, and Mayor C. S. Yarbrough.

Auburn's 1,500 R. O. T. C. cadets were assembled on the drill field and back of them bleachers were erected for other spectators. The Fun! Fun!

All Kinds and Varieties Offered By Carnival At Montevallo High School

A community carnival, featuring two types of social dancing, stunts arranged by every high school class, exhibits, games, etc., will be held April 14. This fun festival is being sponsored by The Spotlight, Montevallo High School's newspaper, and will take place in the school building. The general public is invited and the admission will be 15 cents.

Every class in the school is now preparing an amusement of some kind to contribute to the festivities. For a few pennies the public may witness anything from a marionette show to a "house of horrors." The class sponsoring the amusement which attracts the most customers will receive a prize.

Old-fashioned square dancing with music furnished by a real hill-billy band will be carried on upstairs while downstairs regular dancing will hold sway.

An exhibit of special interest to parents will show the finest pieces of art, pottery, handiwork, etc., that the school has produced this year.

Remember the date: One week from Friday at 7:30 p.m. Every person in the community is guaranteed at least one item that will attract him at this carnival.

Deaths Decrease In State of Alabama

In spite of an increase estimated at about 32,000 in the state's population, 1,118 fewer people died in Alabama last year than in 1937, according to provisional figures prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health.

These figures show that Alabama deaths reported last year totaled only 29,967, as compared with a 1937 total of 31,085. Last year's total was described as lower also than the totals for 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1936. Nearly 80 per cent of the decrease last year, as compared with 1937, was said to have been among the Negroes of the state.

BAPTIST CHURCH

"Called Unto Eternal Life" will be the pastor's theme at the Sunday morning service. At 7:30 p.m. he will speak on "The Growing Kingdom." Sunday School meets at 9:45 a.m. and the Baptist Training Union at 6:45 p.m.

Mr. Warren Brown of Birmingham spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Brown.

Postoffice Mural Shows Pioneers

The mural now installed in the lobby of the Postoffice Building was a Treasury Mural Competition Award given to and executed by William Sherrod McCall of Jacksonville, Florida.

The design, titled "Early Settlers of Shelby County," shows a simple scene of a representative family of pioneers weighing cotton in the field. They are a sturdy stock; healthy, intelligent looking people of Anglo-Saxon background. Many of them migrated from Virginia and the Carolinas.

Quoting Mr. McCall, "I did not strive to make my painting startling or different. I just wanted to paint simple, honest people in a simple, honest manner. I wanted my panel to be so appropriately made that having once seen it, one will henceforth see it only as a natural part of the building."

Mr. McCall is a native of the South, his ancestors having migrated into Florida from Virginia in 1802. His art education was gained in California schools, where he lived and studied for some time; but, in his painting he reflects the warm, mellow colors of his native soil.

This work was done under the authorization of the Division of Painting and Sculpture, Procurement Division of the United States Treasury, and is in no way connected with WPA but is a stationary part of the Federal Government.

Y. W. A. MOTHER-DAUGHTER TEA

Mrs. J. I. Riddle entertained the Y. W. A. girls and their adopted mothers at a tea Friday afternoon.

The house was beautifully decorated in yellow and white. The tea table was centered with a bowl of yellow and white snapdragons. The color scheme was carried out in the dainty refreshments. Misses Opal Gibson, Hattie Garrison, and Sue Cowart poured tea. During the afternoon approximately 100 guests called. This is an annual event and is looked forward to by both the girls and the mothers.

A beautiful musical program was rendered during the afternoon.

Assisting in serving were Miss Alice Mayfield, Miss Elizabeth Griffin, Miss Hope Balch, Miss Frances Wood, Miss Freda Cowan, and others.

School Girls Meet For Meet Thursday-Friday

Student Body Moved Out Wednesday for a Week of Spring Vacation

Leaving the Alabama College campus at noon Wednesday for a week's spring vacation, students cleared the way for arrival of the thousand or more high school girls who will attend the annual Inter-High School Meet beginning Thursday morning and ending Friday afternoon.

Entrants are expected from every quarter of Alabama, according to Prof. W. J. Kennerly, general chairman. More than 1,300 attended in 1938.

Largest division of the meet is Play Day, state-wide sports event for girls which is under the supervision of the State High School Athletic Association, represented by Miss Minnie Sellers, adviser, of Jacksonville State Teachers College. Montevallo director of events in Play Day is Miss Margaret McCall, head of the department of Health and Physical Education.

Other divisions of the meet are Home Economics, headed by Dr. Lois Ackertley; Speech and Dramatics, Miss Ellen-Haven Gould; Music, Prof. Harrison D. LeBaron, and Arts, Miss Dawn Kennedy.

Many faculty members and students will remain on the campus through Friday in order to assist with the program.

Schools in distant parts of the state will come to Montevallo.

Representatives from schools in distant parts of the state arrived Wednesday night so as to be on hand for registration at 8:30 a.m. Thursday.

Pageant Will Portray Life of Mound Builders

Depicting the life of a people who thousands of years ago developed a culture and built a city near where is now Moundville, Alabama, a pageant will be presented at dusk on Friday, April 14, in the midst of the 32 earthen mounds that mark the place of the old town.

The pageant, "Children of the Sun God," is directed by Miss Mary Sue Lamb of Boligee, Ala. It portrays the arrival from the west of these strange Mound Builders, their life on the dirt hillocks that they erected on the bank of the Black Warrior River and their disappearance toward the western sun.

Various episodes will be dramatized by pupils from different schools in Hale County, by members of a nearby CCC camp, and by local citizens. Coming down from Tuscaloosa, the University of Alabama's Million Dollar Band will supply the musical continuity.

Miss Sue Ellen Moore, English teacher at the Akron High School, wrote the words to the drama. Dance interludes were composed by Dr. Ethel J. Saxeman, head of the physical education department at the University of Alabama.

Chairman of the pageant committee of the Hale County Historical Society, sponsors of the affair, is Mrs. Jeff Powers, Jr., of Moundville.

The site of the mounds has been made into a state park because of the efforts of Dr. Walter B. Jones, who as chairman of the Alabama Museum of Natural History, supervised the excavations and developments at the park and construction of the museums there.

BOB ANDERSON ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CLASS

County Agent Tells How To Turn Vetch

Within a few days many tons of green manure, rich in nitrogen and organic matter, must be plowed under by Shelby County farmers to make fields ready for summer crops.

Vetch and Austrian peas should be turned when 15 to 20 pounds of green tops can be pulled off of a block 10 feet square in an average place in the field. This will not take much time and is the most accurate way to tell when to turn vetch.

The first requirement in turning vetch is a good plow. By this I mean a plow that will shed the soil readily, that will throw a good layer of soil to give good coverage, and that will run steadily. This plow should cut 10 to 12 inches. Different soils require different plow types and one who is not familiar with soil requirements should try the different types until he finds the plow best suited to his soil. The company name may be misleading because most all plow manufacturers make different plows to suit different soil types. Usually the chilled plow will work all right on sandy soils; while the soft center steel plow or the flat wing plow will work best on clay soils.

With the proper plow a rolling coultter will be needed for good results. This coultter is a steel disc 12 to 13 inches in diameter with sharp edges and is attached to the plow beam.

The axle of this coultter should be set about even with the point of the share. It should be set so as to run about one-half to three-fourths inch to the left of the land side of the plow. The coultter should be set to cut about half the depth of the plow on sandy soils and one-third the depth of the plow on clay soils. Observation will show the necessary depth to run the coultter. —A. A. Lauderdale, County Agent.

Miss Beonica Ingram Is Bride Of Mr. Johnson

A wedding of great interest was that of Miss Beonica Ingram and O. M. Johnson, which took place Wednesday, March 22, at the home of Rev. Collier, pastor of the Baptist Church of Goodwater.

A pretty setting was arranged by placement of baskets and vases of spring flowers and shrubbery in the living room.

The bride was attired in a gown of turquoise blue novelty crepe and jacket of the same material. Her hat of blue straw matched and her accessories were black and white. Her corsage was valley lilies and orchid tied with white ribbon.

Miss Ingram's only attendant was her twin sister, Mrs. Max Allen, as matron of honor, who was dressed in a dusty rose dress and hat with japonica and white shoes and accessories. Her corsage was pink rose buds.

Max Allen served the groom as best man.

The impressive ring ceremony was used, and soft nuptial music was played by Mrs. Collier during the entire service.

The bride's mother, Mrs. T. W. Ingram, Miss Annie Laura Ingram, T. W. Ingram, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Ingram and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Fernon Moore, and four teachers of the Goodwater High School, where the bride and groom are teachers, were present during the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left immediately for a wedding trip to Montgomery, Mobile, Pensacola, and Panama City.

The bride received her B. S. degree from Alabama College last spring. Mr. Johnson is a graduate of Auburn, and the son of a Baptist minister of Fort Payne.

Reports are that certain interests in Alabama are urging farmers to pay no attention to the 6-8-4 fertilization of cotton advocated by the Alabama Experiment Station. Tests over a long period of years have shown that 600 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer for cotton is best. If less than this amount is used, the same proportion of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potash should be used, says J. C. Lowery, agronomist of the Alabama Extension Service.

Pedestrians' Don'ts

Violations of the simplest rules of traffic caused the deaths of 8,000 pedestrians last year, according to a United Press dispatch from Hartford, Connecticut. This number constituted a fourth of the total fatalities—approximately 32,000—last year. It was a toll due entirely to carelessness and to the ignoring of repeated warnings. These 8,000 died needlessly because they:

Crossed at intersections with no signals.

Stepped into the street behind parked cars.

Crossed highways between intersections.

Walked on rural highways with their backs to traffic.

BE ALICE, BUT STEP THROUGH YOUR ELECTRIC BILL INSTEAD OF A LOOKING GLASS

If You Are A Customer Of Alabama Power Company, Tell What You See, And Perhaps A $5 Check Will Be Yours

WHEN Alice stepped through the looking glass, she saw many things that she hadn't expected to see. And today, when thoughtful persons "step through" their electric bill, they see many things their electric bill represents that they hadn't thought of before.

They see that the modest amount of their electric bill represents numerous benefits—some of which come over the electric wires, and many of which do not. Of the benefits which do not come over the wires, modern schools are one example. Approximately a million and a half dollars of the amounts paid each year on electric bills of privately-owned electric companies are for the upkeep of the schools.

Other millions thought to be paid only for electricity—through taxes—go for law enforcement, fire protection, improvement of farming, forestry; and other governmental activities such as better highways, sanitation, public parks, social betterment, flood control, national defense and others you will see as you "step through" your electric bill.

Of the benefits which come over the wires for such a modest amount, perhaps you'll see light—plenty of it, so the children can get their lessons, or that you can read or sew or play games without eye-strain. Or you may see your electric refrigerator, which for the small amount included in your electric bill, enables your family to live more economically and with fewer health hazards.

Perhaps the cleanliness and convenience of the electric range will be one of the benefits you see; or ample hot water, seeming to come as if by magic at the mere turn of a faucet. Or clean clothes, not as the result of hours of backache over a washboard, but because of the electric motor that washes clothing and linens so clean for the tiny amount included in your electric bill. If you live in a rural community, you may marvel that the conveniences of the city are yours, all as the result of the electric service represented by your electric bill—remarkably small when you "step through" and consider what you get for your money.

Write an Ordinary Letter

Your letter need not be fancy, or a literary gem. Write the same kind of a letter you'd write to a friend telling what you see beyond your electric bill. Don't worry about the kind of paper you have to write on, because your ideas on the subject are what will count. Every letter received will get equal consideration. "Dolled up" and decorated letters will receive no more attention by the judges than the plainest ones. Every customer who writes will receive a 100-watt bulb FREE in appreciation of his effort.

Beer, Legalized in Alabama Two Years, Brings $16,000,000 Sales

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Business volume estimated at $16,000,000 has been developed by Alabama's legal beer sales in two years, according to the United Brewers Industrial Foundation. Alabama passed the second anniversary of relegalization on March 22.

Congress legalized beer on April 7, 1933, in response to the President's urgent message "to provide through such manufacture and sale, by substantial taxes, a proper and much-needed revenue for the government."

A million Americans who have participated directly and millions of others who have shared indirectly in the economic benefits of beer and brewing will mark the sixth anniversary of relegalization.

The return of legal beer and ale to the nation has created business, industrial and agricultural returns estimated at nine billion dollars through providing a million new jobs in the brewing and allied industries, contributing nearly two billion dollars in taxes and releasing vast sums for circulation through vital trade channels.

Uncle Sam was among the major beneficiaries, collecting $2,350,000 on the beer consumed in Alabama alone. Federal tax collections throughout the nation exceeded $1,400,000,000. An additional half-billion went to state and local treasuries. Much of the state collection is earmarked for educational and welfare purposes, while some of the Federal levies have returned to the states in the form of various governmental expenditures.

The nine billion dollar national total was accounted for through the consumption of approximately 275,000,000 barrels of beer. Half of this sum went to local business, with labor, taxes and real estate among major participants in the distribution of economic benefits.

Of the remaining four and a half billions, nearly two billions went to taxes, a half-billion for farm products, about 400 millions for brewery labor and the remainder — after deductions for normal investment returns — for construction, machinery and equipment, transportation, advertising, cooperage, bottles, cans, fuel and services.

The boon to agriculture included brewers' use of 15 billions pounds of farm products in that period and the favorable influence on the markets in those products.

Eat More Eggs Says Specialist

Auburn, Ala. — Eggs are richer than most foods in some of the minerals and vitamins, the body needs. Since much of the mineral and vitamin content is concentrated in the yolk, this part is especially valuable. That is why it is one of the first foods added to the baby's milk diet, says Milderd Simon, nutritionist, Alabama Extension Service.

Eggs are particularly needed for their iron, vitamin A, and for their "efficient" protein. They are also rich in phosphorus and are a good source of calcium. Besides vitamin A, eggs are an excellent source of vitamins G and E, and the yolks are one of the relatively few good natural sources of vitamin D.

Nutrition workers consider eggs one of the best foods to help promote growth in children. They recommend that every child have 4 or 5 eggs every week, or better still, one every day. Adults also need to eat at least 3 or 4 eggs every week.

Slow cooking at a low, even heat is the secret of success for all egg dishes. When you cook an omelet, use a thick pan over a low flame. If the dish is to be a soft custard, use simmering rather than boiling water in the lower part of the double boiler. Set custards for baking in a pan of hot water and do not allow the even temperature to go above moderate heat. Fruit whips and meringues made with egg whites only require an even lower, more steady heat than the whole-egg mixture. Poach eggs in plenty of water below the boiling point; fry them in fat that is not too hot. When you cook eggs in the shell, start the cooking in cold water and then bring it to a simmering temperature.

Cutworm Poison Baits Are Given

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers were urged this week by W. A. Ruffin, horticulture and entomology specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, to prepare to combat cutworms at their first appearance in the garden or in the field.

Realizing the damage done by cutworms to cotton and other crops last year, Mr. Ruffin said that the commonly used poison mixture was inexpensive and could be purchased and saved until its use became necessary.

Time for cutworm infestation is here and it is best, he said, to be ready to combat them before they have had an opportunity to do a great deal of damage.

Two means of destroying these pests are given below:

Twenty pounds of wheat bran, 1 pound paris green, or 2 pounds of arsenate of lead, one-half gallon of syrup, three and one-half gallons of water. Mix the wheat bran and the poison dry, in the manner of mixing fertilizer; then add the sweetened water slowly until all the wheat bran is moist. The above formula is sufficient for about two acres.

It is suggested that those farmers who will have an abundant supply of cabbage available chop up, as for slaw, some of this cabbage and sprinkle arsenate over it at the rate of two pounds to a bushel of cabbage. The poisoned cabbage may then be used instead of the wheat bran. It should be distributed along the rows late in the afternoon or at night.

In Memory

It was on Thursday morning at just a few minutes of three, When Jesus came back in His glory, and took away our Rea. We loved her, yes, we loved her, but Jesus loved her best, That's why He took her home for an eternity of rest. I knew, dear Rea, that you had gone before they came and told me, For I looked up to the stars and God and pleaded, "Oh, God, spare my Rea." But His answer came back clearly, "I have your Rea up here with me." I didn't want her back in this wicked world of sin, I asked the Heavenly Father to let me come up there and with my Rea enter in. He came back and said, "No, Ruth, you must stay here and labor on. For there are loved ones to comfort and Frank is so very much alone." Her few short months of married life were happy indeed, But Jesus said, "Come up higher, for of you I have much need." She kissed her loving husband and in a whisper said, "I'm going to Heaven, going, going," and now I know she's in Heaven with the Saviour and saints to sing. She left a fine, sweet baby boy to let her heart her Saviour's songs employ. Weep not for her, dear loved one and friend, For her almost twenty-one years of this awful journey has come to an end. Her soul is at rest and we mustn't for her mourn. We did all we could for her but she has to that "Beautiful Heaven" gone, But all is left us is to prepare to meet her on that bright resurrection morn. So come on, dear friends, and prepare with us to go over there to meet her in that celestial land where there'll be no dying and no parting of hand. A younger sister, RUTH HORNE.

The girls are giving the boys competition in 4-H club livestock projects. A beef calf owned by Ellen Watwood, club member of Houston County, won over more than 100 other fat calves at the Tri-States Fat Stock Show held at Dothan recently. The calf sold for 35 cents per pound.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Day and little daughter, Rita Joyce, visited relatives in Birmingham Sunday.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. J. A. Brown is on the sick list this week. He has the flu.

Mr. Simpson Is Prepared To Renew Monuments

To people who are interested in improving the appearance of their lots in the Montevallo Cemetery, Mr. J. R. Simpson is now offering a service that will be a good starter in this movement if the people will take advantage of it.

Mr. Simpson, who has had many years of experience in the marble and granite business, is now in position to clean old monuments that have been discolored by age and weather, polishing them and giving them a new brilliance that will last for many years. He uses a special formula for this process which is the same as is used by manufacturers of monuments.

Those who may be interested in having such work done should get in touch with Mr. Simpson at phone 5 or 34-J.

GIRL SCOUTS

(By Dama Wills)

The Girl Scouts of Troop 2 met Tuesday at the Little House.

They played several games as an opening. Some girls went out to prepare the gardens for planting next, and a representative from each patrol helped divide the flow-seeds. Two or three girls planted gourd seeds around near the back porch.

Last Saturday one patrol dug up the ground for their flower bed and another one planted some ragged robins.

The following members were present: Pat Weems, Carolyn Ray, Frances Nybeck, Frances Woods, Julia Rogan, Peggy Davis, Ann Davis, Irma Cunningham, Sarah Barr, June Mitchum, Alice Ray Clemmons, Tootsie Clayton, Gloria Killingsworth, Margaret Bickler.
